LAFF LIVES

CURIOUS LAD

Three bright little boys entered the Metropolitan Museum one day, and made for the Egyptian exhibits, where they told the attendant they had come to see "the dead men."

Little Change
Loving-kindness isn't changed in 100 years. Greek maidens used to sit and listen to a lute all evening, too.

Kind to Children
Doctor (after examining patient): "I don't like the looks of your child, band, Adamson."
Doctor: "I don't either. Doctor, but he's so kind to the children."

Pep Talk
Coming upon a football which the farmer's son had brought back from school, the rooster promptly called the hens around him.
"Now, ladies," he said diplomatically, "I don't want to appear ungrateful, or raise any unnecessary fuss, but I do want you to see what is being done in other yards."

THAT'S WHAT YOU THINK
The white collar girl from the city had just begun her vacation at a dude ranch and was desperately trying to mount her horse. A cowboy, who had been observing her, remarked smilingly, "You're getting on that horse backwards, ma'am."

Usual Performance
A bore is one who opens his mouth and puts his feet in it.
Time Tells
Original—Want an ideal becomes after you marry him.

True Analysis
Plattery is per cent soft soap, and soap is 99 per cent lye.
THE PROPER DRESS

An enthusiastic amateur gardener spent all his spare time patting around the yard in his oldest clothes. One Saturday when his wife was giving a very formal tea, she gave him strict orders not to garden, saying he was just to direct-able-looking. He took it very meekly, so she was completely bewildered when her guests looked out the window and began shrieking with laughter. There on the front lawn, pushing the lawn mower in precise lines, turning square corners with a click of his heels, was the head of the family—immaculately clad in white tie and tails.

PAGING MR. ANTHONY
Two women were gossiping on a sidewalk one morning and they were discussing the recent marriage of the daughter of one of them.
"Since your girl got married," said the first, "how is she getting along?"
"Oh, she's getting along fine," was the other's reply. "There's only one thing the matter."

"What's that?" asked the first.
"Well," was the reply, "she just can't stand her husband. But, when a person gets married, I guess there's always something."

THREE-IN-ONE

The Three-in-One Study Club met on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. P. G. Mathis with Mrs. Levy Morrow and Mrs. N. B. Crookwell as joint hostesses. The reception rooms held an array of rose buds and mimosas. A solid plate was served on arrival and afterwards Miss Lillian Rowe presided over a business session.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Carl Schultz of Okaloosa, Ia. The groom, Rev. Fuller, is the son of Mr. & Mrs. C. E. Fuller of Elba.

Palms made the background of the altar, enclosed on either side by candelabras. The foreground of the altar was flanked on either side with baskets of white gladioli. The family pew were marked with pink and white ribbons.

Immediately preceding the processional the groom sang "I Love My True Love," and the bride sang "I Love You Truly."

NEGRO TEACHERS HOLD INSTITUTE

The Coffee County Negro Teachers Institute was held Friday morning at the Elba County school with Roy Johnson, president.

Kenneth Crook, superintendent of Coffee County school, reported that three colored schools in this county were discontinued. The teachers will go to various other schools in the county.

Theme of the institute was "The Importance of a Professional Teacher." William Patton Jr. gave a talk on that subject. Ruth Saunders gave a discussion of "The Importance of a Professional Teacher."

New teachers in the county are Clarence Foster Cox and Frank L. Stevens.

B. W. C.
The Business Women's Circle of the Elba Methodist church met on Monday evening with Mrs. Roy Devane for their regular meeting. A salad plate was served on arrival. Mrs. Harold Deal conducted the business meeting.

Mrs. John Glenn Lee gave a talk on "Why Baptize by Sprinkling."

CEMETERY WORKING
There will be a cemetery working at Pleasant Ridge on Thursday, Sept. 18. John C. Goodson asks anyone interested to come and bring his own tools.

Sparkplug Lover Feared Dead in Sierra Snows
QUINCY, Cal.—Mamuel Herrick, 78, whose railway as a congressman from Oklahoma made news in the 1920's, is reported missing in the snow-buried California Sierras and is thought to be dead.

The frozen body of George L. Welch, 73, Colfax, Cal., Herrick's companion when they were in the high country was found by a search party.

Herrick, a Republican, went to rescue him from the eighth Oklahoma district in 1921. He failed to win re-election.

He was labeled the "mortal daredevil" of congress and the "sparkplug" of Washington.

He won the title by flying around Washington in Army-bus airplanes and from his heart-balm coat.

Circular Vision Covers Up for the Optic Papilla
CHICAGO, Ill.—At the back of every human eye is a spot or disc about a twentieth of an inch in diameter which is insensitive to light, so that the act of seeing cannot occur there. This is the blind spot, or optic papilla, where the optic nerve enters the eyeball, says the Better Vision Institute.

We are not normally conscious of being completely blind at this point, because of a remarkable arrangement of the eyes in binocular vision. The part of the visual field covered by the blind spot in one eye is covered by a corresponding sensitive area in the other, and the other eye takes over the seeing job in that part of the field.

Nevertheless, anyone can demonstrate to himself that he has a blind spot. On a piece of white paper make two black marks a couple of inches apart, the left one a square and the right a circle. Then close the left eye and fix the other on the square while the paper is moved toward and away from the eyes. A point will be found where the circle disappears. This is the point where the image falls upon the entrance of the optic nerve in the right eye.

Man Lives Full Six Months Without Dying in Hospital
NEW YORK, N.Y.—Sidney Gruener, 55, left a Bronx hospital after four years. He was discharged because he hasn't "died" once in six months.

He suffers from a rare ailment known as a heart block combined with an "unknown factor" which creates a condition called ventricular fibrillation.

When an attack comes and he's had dozens of them—Gruener has no pulse. No heartbeat can be detected. His blood pressure becomes zero. A physician unfamiliar with his case might pronounce him dead.

The attacks last from seconds to several minutes. If they last more than eight minutes, hospital authorities said, the victim probably will die—permanently.

Meat Inspector Didn't Trust the Hamburger
BIRMINGHAM, Ill.—A meat inspector walked into a cafe and asked to see the meat.

"Excused to the cooler by owner Joe Koser," he was told. He examined the hamburger for evidence of horse meat—which has created a big scandal in Illinois.

Then the inspector took off his hat and coat and ordered a hamburger plate.

MUCH CHEAPER

An upstate New York veterinary got a call from a local store. A farmer there wanted him to look at a sick cow. The doctor picked up the farmer and drove over, whistling.

At the farmer's house, the farmer opened the car door and said: "You an old man out here, I have a charge only 15 for a visit while a taxi would be 25."

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

By C. H. Harper
Soil Conservationist

Friday, Sept. 9, was a homecoming day for the Elba County Soil Conservation District. The men are developing improved pastures to increase their number of livestock. It is planned to combine cows, hogs, col-ten and peapans to use land efficiently and to get highest production.

Mr. Wise planted 15 acres of sorghum this past spring. The sorghum has been the principal source of his grazing for livestock. Cows, hogs and peapans are doing well on it.

Mr. Hughes and wife used sorghum and banana grass to pasture for their livestock this summer. The cows on Long two farms have eaten the sorghum and are in good condition. Mr. Hughes and Mr. Wise recommend that all farmers start to develop their pasture land.

It is planned to prepare and develop a long time soil conservation plan with the Wire-grass Soil Conservation District on these farms. A soil survey will be made to determine the capability of each acre of land. The capability is determined by soil type, slope of land and degree of erosion.

ONLY ONE "I"
The young railroad hand took his grandfather, a retired steam locomotive engineer, down to watch the start of an experimental run of a radically new type of engine.

"While the old man and his grandson watched, 100 cars were put behind the new locomotive. The old man spat into the cinders and said smugly to his grandson: 'She'll never start!'"

But eventually the conductor gave the engineer a highball, the whistle sounded and the engine and train began moving down the tracks.

"Well, grandpa," chuckled the youngster, "what do you say to that?"

The old man spat once more into the cinders, looked the boy in the eye and said through tight lips: "She'll never stop 'em!"

BUT DEFINITELY!

The story is told about Editor Samuel Bowles, of the Springfield Republican, that he would never admit that his paper was wrong.

Once, the Republican erroneously reported the glories of its own country. The editor was very much alive. Bowles was informed of the case, but said: "I'm sorry, but if the Republican says he's dead, then he's dead. It was only after this summer that the editor died."

J. J. Lindsey Seeks Re-Election to Council

J. J. Lindsey, operator of The Lindsey Grill, is asking the voters of Elba to return him to his seat on the council for the third term when they go to the polls Monday.

Mr. Lindsey, who was born and raised in Coffee County, has been prominent in Elba business circles for the past 30 years. He ran a wholesale produce business for 14 years, one of the persons instrumental in starting the textile plant here and now is in the restaurant business.

The two-time winner in the city elections, states he will try to serve the people of Elba in the same fair and honest way he has in the past eight years.

For councilman-at-large, G. E. Lindsey, 101 and W. H. Sanders, 72. N. H. Ham, 81; for councilman-at-large, G. E. Lindsey, 101 and W. H. Sanders, 72.

One of the really enjoyable social events of the summer was the spend-the-day party tendered the members of the Elba Club by the Elba Club.

Mr. Lindsey, who was born and raised in Coffee County, has been prominent in Elba business circles for the past 30 years. He ran a wholesale produce business for 14 years, one of the persons instrumental in starting the textile plant here and now is in the restaurant business.

The two-time winner in the city elections, states he will try to serve the people of Elba in the same fair and honest way he has in the past eight years.

About People and Things

By C. B. McDowell

Obi Nevels, watchman at the Dorsey Trailer plant, reports a fellow watchman after going off duty last week, got home and discovered he had lost his teeth. The man rushed back to the plant and organized an intensive search for the missing molar. After a thorough hunt, the lost teeth were found in a trash can. They required a good deal of cleaning but didn't show evidence of having been used by anyone else. The watchman was sent on his way rejoicing.

Out of 695 ballots, Mullins received 21 to 157 for Polson. New councilmen who will take their seats around the table at city hall the first Monday of October will be Alva Devane and Stokes Haire. Devane defeated J. J. Lindsey, who was running for his third term, 387 to 300. Stokes Haire topped Ed Kendrick, incumbent, 380 to 306.

Retaining his seat on the council was Dr. C. P. Hayes, who completed until 1 o'clock Tuesday morning. Stokes Haire expressed it pretty well when he said the voters did not want more than just what they were getting.

Much interest was shown in the election but everything went off quietly. The count was completed until 1 o'clock Tuesday morning. Stokes Haire expressed it pretty well when he said the voters did not want more than just what they were getting.
